Showing this Evening:

-Final show of this Season-

"Into the Air"

Shows the progress of Man in his quest to fly and fly ever higher. Part one is about the early flying machines and Wright Brothers first flight. Part two shows problems in the early space launches, including some weird test films.

"School, It's your Job"

A reel of excerpts from old films about going to school. Featuring O.J.Simpson in "Dropping Out" who lectures the viewer on taking responsibility for ones actions, "Alcohol is Dynamite" showing the down fall of a high school musician and a black & white film from the 60's about a young mans problems with a teenage gang (shot in Lawrence).

Tonight:

-Tonight 3 Scary Movies-

"Hercules in the Haunted World"

This outing finds Hercules in conflict with Christopher Lee as, you guessed it, a vampire. He also goes to Hell, fights an army of zombies, battles with "Procrustis" the rock demon and finds a way to use a conveniently placed boulder to solve any problem. (running time: 55 min.)

"Horrors in Life"

This is the M.T. Pockets version of a "Homage to Horror" which features the "Horrors of the Occult (hosted by Christopher Lee)", the history of the "deadly weed" marijuana, Michael Jackson (before all that surgery he's had), a large assortment of horror previews and just plan bad movie previews. The show begins with one of my own personal horrors... something so frightening that it awakes me in the middle of the night screaming. (running time: 50 min.)

"Brotherhood of Satan"

A film about a small rural town under the hold of Satan, but no one knows why. It follows a typical family who falls into this mess of out of work actors, cheap special effects and enough overacting that would conjure any demon. WARNING: may contain backwards messages and buckets of red paint. (running time: 45 min.)

The Alternative Space

A different theatre experience

June 21 & 22 at 8:00 p.m.

"Campfire Diaries" - Roger Shimomura's multi-media theatre piece

Campfire Diaries is a multi media theatre piece that revolves around the translated diary entries of Roger's grandmother, Toku Shimomura, Japanese American pioneer and midwife of over 1000 babies born in the Pacific Northwest. For fifty six years, starting from the year of her immigration to this country, Ms. Shimomura maintained a diary of her daily life. The time frame of this performance focuses in the World War II years that resulted in the illegal internment of over 120,000 Japanese Americans, two thirds of which were American citizens by birthright.

A documentary about the making of this piece will be shown following the performance.

August 9 & 10 at 8:00 p.m.

"Escapee Drive-In"

A multi media theatre piece that combines film shorts, performance art and wacky musicians for a grand evening of offbeat entertainment. This event has had an underground following around Kansas. Joel Sanderson brings his unusual view of the world to this performance.
